From the Principal:

"Relationships and Partnerships...what's the difference?"

"Each one of us is never as strong as all of us..." (Anonymous)

"Unity is strength...where there is collaboration, wonderful things can be achieved." (Mattie Stepanek)

ALL of us have many relationships that we are involved in. These of course include relationships with family (including husbands, wives, partners, children, grand-children), relationships with work colleagues, relationships with school communities, sporting associations, service clubs and indeed with Jesus Christ.

We all know from experience relationships go through many phases. There are times when we fall in love with those we are in a relationship with, times when we fall out of love, times when we are always in love, times of anger, frustration, unbridled joy and happiness. I'm sure we can confidently say that when we are in a relationship we experience all of the human emotions... That's life.

What we also know is that when we come into a relationship it requires a "true partnership" for it to be successful. We know that teams have success on and off the sporting field when they work closely together. We also know that in the case of sporting teams, it will take more than one person or indeed a small number to contribute to the ongoing success of the entire team.

As a school, one of the great strengths of our teaching and support staff is the willingness to work together to achieve outcomes for students. Teachers know that regardless of what class they teach they rely on the efforts of the teachers before, and indeed of the parents at home, to establish building blocks and provide the best possible foundation for learning progress. In the past few years our teachers have worked very hard to share data about students to interrogate the information about what students are doing, considering the challenges of their learning, looking for solutions to support students making further progress. Put simply if teachers work in silos then we as a school and indeed your children will not be as successful as when teaching teams work together.

As Principal I too know that I need to work with children, parents and staff to achieve the very best for our children, the children of Sacred Heart Catholic Primary School. A fantastic example of a great outcome for our children is our outdoor environment. In the past 3 years our Playground has been transformed because of the exceptional commitment, support, investigation and efforts from a large number of our community. We look forward to working with our community to develop the next stage.

When we think about relationships, the most successful relationships are ones that co-exist as a partnership. These partnerships put the partnership first and self second, they “check-in” with one another, they are respectfully honest, they “give and take”, they look ahead together, they are adaptable and flexible, they collaborate, they commit to the team or relationship, they listen more than they talk and ultimately individuals in a relationship don’t look for blame they look for solutions in themselves and the relationship as a whole and finally the partners in the relationship are “better people” because of the others in the relationship

Many of us enjoy our own company; there will always be a time and a place to spend time on your own. Humans, though, were born to live with others. We know that we are better people when we work together to achieve an outcome. We also know that for ALL of us we are better people when we contribute to the ongoing success and happiness of our fellow community members.

In the week ahead consider the most successful relationships in your life, what are you doing to make this a success? What else could you do to strengthen the relationship? What partnership of yours needs the most work? What else could you do to make this more effective? More than anything, consider what would your life be like without these relationships/partnerships and how are we better off because of the relationships and partnerships?

Thanks to each and every member of our school community for the contributions you all make towards our school community.

“Coming together is a beginning; keeping together is progress; working together is success.” (Henry Ford)

“It is literally true that you can succeed best and quickest by helping others to succeed.” (Napoleon Hill)

SCHOOL UNIFORM

Last week we noticed a number of children coming to and leaving school without their school jumpers on. Our school expectation is that all children wear their jumper to and from school unless otherwise advised (this will normally be if the when the weather warms up). Mrs Mercer spoke to the children last week at assembly to remind children of the importance of respecting our school by wearing uniform appropriately.

Emergency Practice

Within the next 6 weeks, whilst at recess or lunch we will hold an unannounced emergency practice with staff & students, to test our response to a potential scenario that staff identify a threat warranting the school go into lockdown (opposite to evacuation).

Like for fire evacuation drills, we recognised the worth to test this process.

We have plans in place to make this practice as least disruptive as able.

If you have queries please call our Safety Officer, Simon Natoli on 0400 105 476

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Under 16 Homelessness Taskforce

The State Government has created a Taskforce to help address homelessness for children and young people under 16 in Tasmania.

The Department of Communities Tasmania are helping the Taskforce by asking children, young people, parents, carers and services about their experiences and ideas on what might help to improve under 16 homelessness in Tasmania.

The Department of Communities Tasmania want to make sure that all children, young people, parents and carers of children that have experienced homelessness have a voice.

Everyone that takes part in these confidential surveys will have the first opportunity to see the solutions that the Taskforce develops.

The survey will take around 10 minutes to complete and can be accessed at <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/32F5KGS>

The survey will be open from 22 July to 20 Sept 2019
