"Applying 'The Creed' to our lives"

Last weekend twenty-three children celebrated their First Eucharist across the Parish of Launceston. A few weeks ago the children received a written copy of The Creed. During the celebration of the Mass just before the Prayers of the Faithful all those in attendance recite The Creed.

What is a creed?

'A creed can be a formal doctrine, or system of beliefs, for a church or religious group. It can also be a philosophy, or personal set of beliefs. The origins of the word are in the Latin crēdō, "I believe," once specific to the Christian faith, but by the 17th century it was used for many different faiths. Companies, societies, and disciplines might also adopt a creed — as in a political creed, a national creed, or a management creed — that lays out a particular belief-system or way of doing things.'

In the Mass it is not only spoken but also spoken in front of others. By doing so we are stating that this is our belief and that we are judged by how well we strive to live this creed out.

When I was a teacher, as part of the preparation for this Sacrament I would ask students to write their own creed. They were asked to write a series of statements beginning each time with "I believe..." We did a fair bit of preparation and discussion of what a creed is and why it was important and the importance of 'being true to your word'.

Each student was asked to read their creed out to the class once they were happy that it really reflected their beliefs. It was really powerful across the rest of the year to have students reread their creed in moments of conflict. To reread the creed out loud when their actions or behaviours or attitudes were not matching what they had written down, for themselves.

Imagine how awesome our school community would be if we all (staff, students, parents and principals) tried just 10% more to live a positive creed in all situations. A focus on what we can do, what we can change and what we can take responsibility for not what others are lacking, doing wrong or not supporting.

In our Catholic Schools we celebrate the role our schools play to "...educate the whole person ..and that education of the whole person must form the spiritual, intellectual, physical, psychological, social, moral, aesthetic and religious capacities of each child." Archbishop Charter for Catholic School's; Preamble.

I wonder what creed will we live out this week?

TOGETHER; bound by faith, in Jesus' image.

Over the weekend several of our Sacred Heart students received their First Holy Communion. In Father Chatty's homily he spoke to us about always keeping Jesus in our hearts and talking to Him often. He told our recipients to keep Him in their heart always as a friend and companion. We wish each of them blessings, love and congratulations.

On Thursday I was fortunate enough to travel to Star of the Sea in Georgetown to spend time with some of our Year 6 students learning more about Nano Nagle, founder of the Presentation Sisters, whom established our school. Our children went on a personalised virtual tour of Nano Nagle House, activities, enjoyed a special lunch and collaborated with others students from Presentation Catholic Schools. The enthusiasm, willingness to learn and ideas our Year 6's presented were wonderful.

nano nagle learning corner

Sacred Heart was established by the Presentation Sisters and the Christian Brothers. Nano Nagle was the lady who founded this order of Sisters. Nano helped poor children in Ireland. She bravely started small schools she kept secret to educate children, even though they were not allowed to go to school. Nano found other ladies to help her in her work and eventually the Presentation Sisters were formed. The Presentation Sisters spread all over the world, helping the poor and giving children an education. Sacred Heart Catholic School was one of these schools. The Presentation Sisters use to be the teachers here and even lived right next to our school.
